

Revolutionary Terminology

All our subjects are interwoven within each other. You'll find bits and pieces of each in the other. Some days it feels like you're going in circles or run into one or two problems, but at the end of the day, we piece it together and find what we've been looking for. The final answer has to do with statistics.

